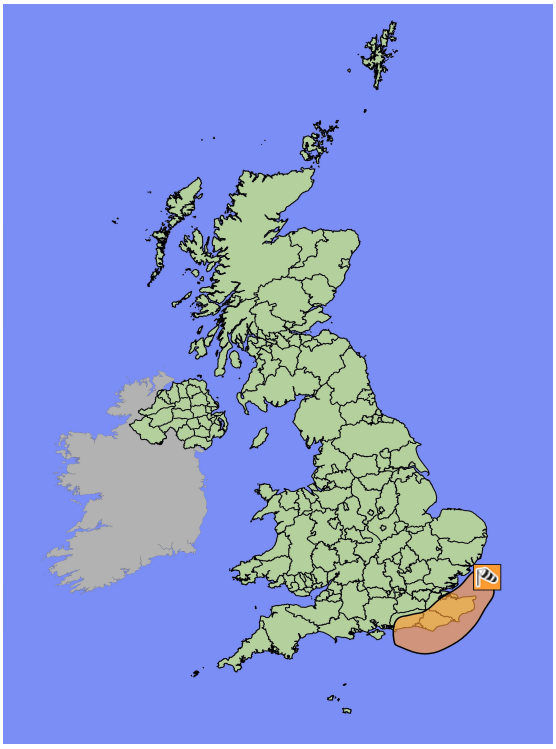
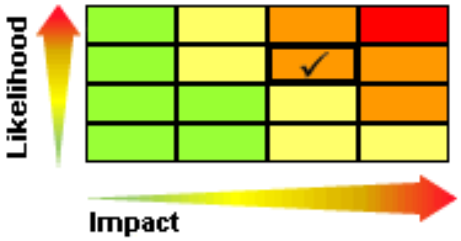
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A swathe of very strong winds are expected to affect parts of southeast England for a time during today, with the likelihood of some trees being brought down as gusts reach 60 mph inland and possibly as high as 70 mph along parts of the coast.

The Met Office have issued an Amber Warning of Wind

Valid from 10:00 on Mon, 24th Sep 2012 until 16:00 on Mon, 24th Sep 2012

A band of heavy rain will move northeast across southeast England later this morning, followed by a rapid increase in the wind as it becomes a westerly. Gusts of 50-60 mph are likely inland with a risk of 65-70 mph gusts along exposed coasts. The public should be prepared for the risk of disruption, particularly to travel.
